

Johnson & Johnson supply chain/operations co-op program

January 6, 2012

Background

I am reaching out to you regarding J&J's supply chain/operations co-op program. Our undergraduate co-op positions are six months in length and are based on supply chain/operations areas of Johnson & Johnson's business. We are recruiting for several locations throughout the US with our home base in New Jersey. We offer a very competitive salary and housing assistance is provided if necessary. Co-op candidates can be any major but should have an interest in business and an anticipated undergrad graduation date of May 2013 or later.

Action Requested

I would like to inform you that the Johnson & Johnson recruiting team will be back on campus on February 7-8th to interview for our Fall 2012 Co-op class. We will be pre-selecting students for interviews based on our online posting on Orange Link, and I would greatly appreciate it if you could relay this message to your students. Students should follow the instructions on the Orange Link posting since they will need to apply to the J&J Careers website as well. Please note that the application deadline is January 29, 2012.

We will also be attending the Whitman Supply Chain Career Fair on February 7th and we are able to slot students for interviews at that time. Please encourage your students to apply the Orange Link posting and come see us at the Career Fair.

I greatly appreciate your help reaching out to your students about our co-op opportunities. The recruiting team looks forward to working cooperatively with you to increase the number of Syracuse University students at Johnson & Johnson.

Please let me know if you have any questions and I look forward to seeing you all next month!

Thank you,
