

Materials Management Intern Program

The intent of the Pratt & Whitney Materials Management Intern program is to provide students with the opportunity to integrate their classroom learning with on-the-job experience in Materials and Supply Chain Management. This program creates a platform for your professional growth and development as well as provides you with a head start in building your career credentials and professional network. As an intern, you will benefit from supervised and comprehensive on-the-job training, and be encouraged to contribute fresh ideas in an environment that ignites the imagination and brings innovative results.

This unique program is intended to begin your sophomore year and ends when you graduate. Upon acceptance into the program, your interests and capabilities will be assessed and matched with a position that fulfills everyone's needs. The first assignment will provide you and us an opportunity to better define your career path. The second assignment (Junior-Senior year) will be a continuation of your original assignment or a reassignment to another position dependent upon our mutually inclusive needs.

Pratt & Whitney's Materials Management Intern program provides a flexible learning environment to help kick-start your career and provide the talented resources to meet our labor force requirements for the future. An outline and program highlights of this process are as follows:
